

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEVADA

JEANINE DAVIS,
 Plaintiff(s),

v.

CLARK COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT, et al.,
 Defendant(s).

Case No. 2:11-cv-01896-JAD-NJK

Report and Recommendation to Chief Judge Miranda M. Du

An attorney who violates the Nevada Rules of Professional Conduct, the Court's orders, and the governing rules, may be disbarred, suspended from practice before this court for a definite time, reprimanded, or subjected to other discipline as the court deems proper. Local Rule IA 11-7(a). Initiation of such disciplinary proceedings requires a judge's written report and recommendation to the Chief Judge. Local Rule IA 11-7(g). The undersigned issues this report and recommendation that disciplinary proceedings be initiated regarding attorney Eric Roy.

This case has involved a landslide of violations of the governing rules and orders by Plaintiff's counsel, Eric Roy. See Docket No. 42 (identifying failure to file separate documents as separate docket entries); Docket No. 45 (identifying failure to file proposed discovery plan in timely manner); Docket No. 68 at 1 (identifying failure to comply with redaction requirement for birth date and minor's name);¹ Docket No. 69 (identifying two failures to submit settlement conference statement); Docket No. 70 at 1-2 (identifying third failure to submit settlement conference statement); Docket No. 72 at 2 (identifying failure to comply with order to file redacted

1 version of amended complaint); Docket No. 75 at 3 n.3 (identifying failure to comply with 2 redaction requirement for minor's name); Docket No. 78 at 2 (identifying failure to comply with 3 redaction requirement for minor's name and requirements for case caption); Docket No. 103
4 (identifying failure to file letter as ordered); Docket No. 117 (identifying failure to file documents 5 using the correct docketing event); Docket No. 129 (identifying failure to file documents using the 6 correct docketing events). In connection with these violations, the Court has warned Attorney Roy 7 repeatedly that future violations could result in the imposition of significant sanctions and, in fact,
8 has imposed monetary sanctions on Attorney Roy. See Docket No. 69 (admonishment and 9 warning of possibility of sanctions in the future); Docket No. 75 at 3-4 (imposing attorneys' fees, 10 ordering Attorney Roy to read the local rules and applicable orders, and warning that future
11 violations may result in "significant sanctions");² Docket No. 81 (warning that any future violation
12 of rules or orders will likely result in sanctions); Hearing Rec. (10/9/2013) at 3:46 p.m. (warning
13 that there will most likely be sanctions for future violations). The Court has also heard repeated 14 assurances from Attorney Roy that he has taken the necessary steps to practice competently in this 15 courthouse in compliance with all of the governing rules and orders. See, e.g., Docket No. 80 at 16 1-2; Hearing Rec. (10/9/2013) at 3:44 – 3:45 p.m.

17 Despite all of the above circumstances, Attorney Roy filed once again a document on the 18 public docket with personal identifying information, this time consisting of the full birth dates of 19 three different people. Docket No. 140 at 1 (full date of birth of child); Docket No. 140-1 (full 20 dates of birth of child, mother, and father). Hence, Attorney Roy's recent filing again violated the 21 governing rules and governing orders despite numerous warnings of potentially significant 22 repercussions for doing so. Particularly given Attorney Roy's history of violations, the warnings 23 provided to him, and his previous assurances of attaining the competence to practice in this

1 courthouse, the Court issued an order for him to show cause in writing why he should not be 2 sanctioned in a fine of up to $2,000 for each of the recent violations. Docket No. 141 at 1.³

3 Attorney Roy filed a response. Docket No. 142. While purportedly “not trying to minimize 4 the seriousness of his mistakes,” Attorney Roy explains that he practices mostly in the local state 5 court, which does not have the same rules regarding redaction of personal identifying information.
 6 Id. at 1-2. Attorney Roy further explains that his violations of the local rules arose out of his failure
 7 to “check[] the Local Rules of this Court,” despite his concurrent representation that he has “read 8 the Court’s Local Rules multiple times.” Id. at 2. Attorney Roy sums up his violation of the rules 9 to protect personal identifying information by asserting that he “forgot” that he was supposed to 10 redact that information. Id. Attorney Roy also assures the Court that his errors were unintentional.
 11 Id. at 2-4.

12 No reasonable justification has been advanced for the repeated violation of the governing 13 rules and orders. Attorney Roy tries to explain away these violations by pointing primarily to the 14 fact that he practices mostly in state court. That is no excuse at all. As explained by the Ninth 15 Circuit:

16 We recognize that many attorneys who appear in this court rarely 17 practice in federal court at all or are not in the federal system by their 18 own choice, but, rather, were removed here by the opposing litigant.
 19 The fact that an attorney’s federal practice is rare or infrequent, 20 however, is no excuse for ignoring the rules of this court. Just as an 21 attorney who always practices in state court is expected to know the 22 rules of administration and operation particular to that court, we 23 expect an attorney practicing law in federal court to become familiar with and follow rules applicable to practice in this court. It is incumbent upon an attorney practicing in the [this District] for the first time to secure and study the Federal Rules of [Civil Procedure] and the local rules of this [District] so that he or she will know what is expected by the court, the form in which a case is presented, and the consequences inherent in noncompliance.

24 Dela Rosa v. Scottsdale Mem. Health Sys., Inc., 136 F.3d 1241, 1244 (9th Cir. 1998). This has all 25 been explained to Attorney Roy already in this case. Hearing Rec. (10/9/2013) at 3:43 – 3:44 p.m.

27 ³ Attorney Roy also filed once again a document containing the wrong case information in 28 the caption. Docket No. 140 at 1; Docket No. 140-2 at 1. Doing so violates the local rules and orders entered in this case. See, e.g., Local Rule IA 10-2; Docket No. 65.

1 (“Most troubling is that even after the Court issued an order to show cause and sanctioned you,
 2 you still didn’t follow the Court’s orders. . . . While the Court understands that this is the one case
 3 that you have in federal court, however many cases you have, the Court has rules for a reason and 4 it’s important to follow those rules. The Court has some serious concerns, particularly continually 5 including the name of a minor when there is a special order that prohibits it. And, ironically, in 6 your declaration confirming that you’ve read the special rule, you violated it”).

7 The other excuses advanced by Attorney Roy fare no better. Attorney Roy’s representation 8 that the recent violations were inadvertent fails as a matter of law. E.g., Pitman v. Brinker Int’l, 9 Inc., 216 F.R.D. 481, 484 (D. Ariz. 2003) (discussing Lucas Auto. Eng’g, Inc. v.
 10 Bridgestone/Firestone, Inc., 275 F.3d 762, 768 (9th Cir. 2001)); Hologram USA, Inc. v. Pulse 11 Evolution Corp., 2016 WL 2757377, at *2 (D. Nev. May 11, 2016) (Navarro, C.J) (collecting 12 cases). Attorney Roy’s representation that he “forgot” to comply with the redaction rule not only 13 fails as a matter of law, but also flies in the face of the reality of the filing process. An attorney 14 filing a document with the Court is expressly reminded of the requirement to redact personal 15 identifying information (including dates of birth) by CMECF and the attorney must affirmatively
 16 acknowledge reading and understanding that notice before proceeding with the filing.⁴ An image 17 of that notice and required acknowledgement is attached to this order.

18 Hence, no reasonable justification has been advanced for Attorney Roy’s violations.
 19 Adding to the concerning nature of the situation, Attorney Roy has been cautioned repeatedly on 20 these same issues and has been previously sanctioned in this case for violating Court orders.

21 As noted above, the Court may initiate disciplinary proceedings when an attorney (1) 22 violates the local rules; (2) violates the Nevada Rules of Professional Conduct; or (3) violates any 23 order of the Court. Local Rule IA 11-7(a). Attorney Roy’s recent filing undoubtedly involves all 24 three circumstances. Most significantly, Attorney Roy again failed to protect personal identifying

26 ⁴ This is not the first time that Attorney Roy has provided nonsensical positions in an effort 27 to excuse his violations. For example, Attorney Roy previously represented that he was unaware 28 of the need to submit a settlement statement by a particular deadline, despite the fact that he drafted and filed the stipulation with that deadline by which the parties “shall” submit the statements. See Docket No. 75 at 3 (finding such representation “disingenuous at best”).

1 information in violation a clear local rule and numerous prior orders. Such violations also run
2 counter to the ethical obligations to competently represent one's clients, Nev. R. Prof. Cond. 1.1, 3 and to comply with judicial orders, e.g., Weddell v. Stewart, 261 P.3d 1080, 1085 n.9 (Nev. 2011)
4 ("Repeated failure to comply with this court's rules, notices, orders, or other directives may result
5 in a referral of counsel to the State Bar for investigation"). Given Attorney Roy's repeated filing
6 of personal identifying information on the docket, in violation of the local rules, Court orders, and 7 ethical obligations, the undersigned recommends that disciplinary proceedings be initiated.⁵
